Tenant File Documentation Review - First Late-Rent Notice Issuance

Tenant: Tanya Mitchell | Unit: Sunset Ridge, Unit 14

Related Parties: Teresa Wood (Accounting); Brooke Phillips (Leasing)

SECTION 1 - EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

I conducted a documentation assessment today, June 6, 2026, to confirm that the first late-rent notice issued to tenant Tanya Mitchell of Sunset Ridge Unit 14 has been properly drafted, delivered, and filed within our tenant records system. Overall, the notice was issued in compliance with Star Property Management's standard late-rent procedures: the letter was generated with accurate lease and balance details, delivered to Ms. Mitchell via email, and a dated copy has been saved to the tenant's property management file on the shared document drive. The file structure is current and complete as of this review. One minor follow-up item remains open regarding written confirmation of receipt from the tenant, and coordination with accounting is still needed to ensure the account status flag in QuickBooks reflects the outstanding balance and the 10-business-day deadline communicated in the notice.

SECTION 2 - DETAILED FINDINGS

2.1 LATE-RENT TRIGGER AND AIRTABLE RECORD

Condition Observed: The Airtable property management tracker reflects a record created today indicating that Tanya Mitchell's June rent payment was not received within the allowable grace period. The record captures the unit (Sunset Ridge Unit 14), the nature of the delinquency (June balance outstanding), and the action initiated (first late-rent notice). The entry is timestamped and attributed correctly to my name as the initiating party.

Issues / Follow-Up: No data integrity issues were observed in the Airtable entry. The record should be updated once a tenant response or payment is received to maintain an accurate status trail.

2.2 INTERNAL TEAM NOTIFICATION (SLACK)

Condition Observed: I posted a team alert in the relevant Slack channel earlier today to notify staff that Tanya Mitchell's June rent is past the grace period and that a formal notice was being initiated. Teresa Wood acknowledged the message and confirmed she would update the account status on the accounting side. This internal communication loop functioned as intended and ensures that leasing, maintenance prioritization, and accounting staff are aligned on the tenant's current standing.

Issues / Follow-Up: No issues with the internal communication were observed. I will confirm with Teresa Wood that the QuickBooks account status for Sunset Ridge Unit 14 has been updated to reflect the delinquent balance, as this has not yet been independently verified as of the time of this report.

2.3 NOTICE LETTER - CONTENT AND ACCURACY

Condition Observed: I reviewed the first late-rent notice letter prior to delivery. The letter is addressed to Tanya Mitchell at Sunset Ridge Unit 14, references the June rental period, states the outstanding balance due, and includes a 10-business-day deadline for payment or written response, consistent with our standard late-rent notice template and applicable Texas Property Code requirements for residential tenancies. The tone is formal, factual, and non-threatening. The letter identifies Star Property Management as the managing agent and provides contact information for the tenant to remit payment or raise a dispute.

Issues / Follow-Up: No content errors or omissions were identified in the letter. The deadline date referenced in the body of the notice should be cross-checked against the calendar to confirm it falls on a business day and does not inadvertently land on a weekend or public holiday, which could affect enforceability under the lease terms.

2.4 NOTICE DELIVERY - EMAIL TO TENANT

Condition Observed: The notice was delivered to Tanya Mitchell via email today under a subject line referencing her June balance and the 10-business-day deadline. The email was sent from the Star Property Management leasing communications address to the email address on file for Ms. Mitchell in our HubSpot leasing CRM. The email constitutes the primary method of notice delivery for this stage of the late-rent process.

Issues / Follow-Up: As of this review, no written acknowledgment or read-receipt confirmation has been received from the tenant. A follow-up should be placed on the leasing team's task list to check for tenant response within two business days. If no response is received, a secondary delivery method - physical posting to the unit door per Texas Property Code requirements - should be considered to supplement the electronic delivery already completed.

2.5 TENANT FILE - FILESYSTEM DOCUMENTATION

Condition Observed: I saved a copy of the executed first late-rent notice letter to the tenant's property management file on the shared document drive. The file was placed in the directory for Tanya Mitchell's tenant notices and named using the standard Star Property Management convention of leading with the ISO date followed by the notice type, resulting in the filename 2026-06-06-first-late-rent-notice.pdf. The document is a complete, final-version PDF of the letter as sent to Ms. Mitchell. The directory for her notices existed prior to this filing, confirming that prior records for this tenant are maintained in the same location.

Issues / Follow-Up: No issues with file placement or naming were observed. I verified that the saved copy is the same version as the letter that was emailed to the tenant - no discrepancy between the delivered version and the archived copy was detected.

2.6 HUBSPOT CRM - LEASING RECORD STATUS

Condition Observed: I reviewed the HubSpot contact record for Tanya Mitchell to confirm that her leasing profile reflects the current unit assignment (Sunset Ridge Unit 14) and that the contact information on file matches the address to which today's notice was sent. The record is active and the lease status indicator shows a current tenancy. No prior late-rent notices appear on the HubSpot activity timeline for this tenant, confirming this is the first formal notice in the current lease term.

Issues / Follow-Up: HubSpot does not currently carry a dedicated field for late-rent notice status. I will flag this to Brooke Phillips so that a note or activity log entry is added to Ms. Mitchell's HubSpot contact record documenting the issuance of today's notice. This will allow the leasing team to track the notice timeline alongside the broader leasing relationship record.

2.7 QUICKBOOKS - ACCOUNTING COORDINATION

Condition Observed: Teresa Wood was notified via Slack today to flag the account status in QuickBooks for Sunset Ridge Unit 14 to reflect the outstanding June balance. I did not directly access the QuickBooks ledger as part of this review, as that action falls within the accounting team's responsibility. Teresa acknowledged the Slack notification and indicated she would update her records accordingly.

Issues / Follow-Up: Confirmation that the QuickBooks update has been completed has not yet been received. This should be verified before end of business today to ensure that any owner reporting pulled from QuickBooks accurately reflects the delinquency. If the account is not updated promptly, the owner's next financial summary could show a misleading current balance for this unit.

SECTION 3 - RECOMMENDATIONS AND NEXT STEPS

1. VERIFY QUICKBOOKS ACCOUNT UPDATE - I will follow up directly with Teresa Wood before end of business on June 6, 2026, to confirm that the outstanding June balance for Sunset Ridge Unit 14 has been flagged in QuickBooks and that the account status accurately reflects the active late-rent notice period. 2. CONFIRM NOTICE DEADLINE DATE - The 10-business-day deadline referenced in the notice letter should be reviewed against the June 2026 calendar to confirm the deadline date is a valid business day. If an adjustment is necessary, a corrected notice should be re-issued and re-filed promptly, and Ms. Mitchell should be notified of the corrected deadline. 3. MONITOR FOR TENANT RESPONSE - Brooke Phillips should monitor for a response from Tanya Mitchell within two business days of today's notice delivery. If no response or payment has been received by that point, the next step in our late-rent escalation protocol should be initiated, including physical posting of a second written notice to the unit door. 4. LOG NOTICE ACTIVITY IN HUBSPOT - Brooke Phillips should add an activity or note to Tanya Mitchell's HubSpot contact record documenting the date of notice issuance, delivery method, and the 10-business-day response deadline. This ensures the leasing CRM serves as a reliable single source of truth for the tenant relationship history. 5. SECONDARY DELIVERY IF NO ACKNOWLEDGMENT - If no email acknowledgment, payment, or written communication is received from Ms. Mitchell within two business days, a physical copy of the notice should be posted to the door of Sunset Ridge Unit 14 in accordance with Texas Property Code requirements for residential lease notice delivery, and the action should be documented in the Airtable record and tenant file. 6. OWNER NOTIFICATION - Once the account status is confirmed updated in QuickBooks, a brief owner update should be prepared for the Sunset Ridge property owner summarizing the delinquency status, the notice that has been issued, and the timeline for expected resolution or escalation to an eviction filing if payment is not received within the notice period.
